

EMMA WATSON

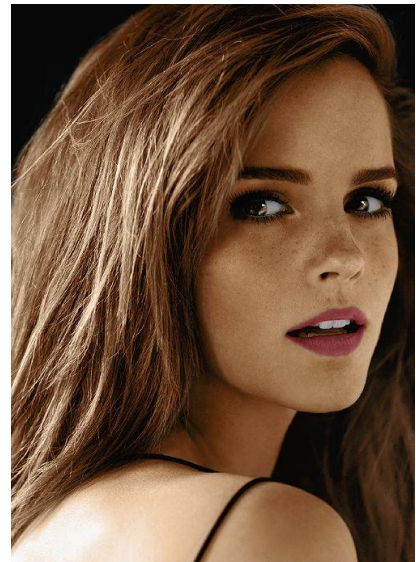

Introduction

Emma Charlotte Duerre Watson is my inspirational leader and I have many reasons why. She is best known for being an actress, model, and feminist. She was born in Paris but brought up in Oxfordshire where she attended the dragon school and trained to pursue her dream of being an actress. She rose to fame after landing her first professional acting role as Hermione Jean Granger in All eight Harry Potter films earning her worldwide fame and about £60,000,000. After the films, she attended university deserving an English literature bachelor's degree. Now her main focuses are still acting, modelling, and fighting for woman's rights.

She plays a great role in the world and expresses many views; here are some of her best quotes-

- "How can we effect change in the world when only half of it is invited or feel welcome to participate in the conversation?"
- "We are struggling for a uniting word, but the good news is that we have a uniting movement."
- "We want to try to galvanize as many men and boys as possible to be advocates for change."
- "We need more of those and if you still hate the word, it is not the word that is important. It's the idea and the ambition behind it."
- "But my recent research has shown me that feminism has become an unpopular word. Women are choosing not to identify as feminists."

Why is Emma Watson a good Leader?

Emma Watson is a good leader because not only has she had incredible success as an actor from the age of 11 but at the age of 25 she has campaigned and pushed forwards protests and reasons to make woman equal to men. As her career has earnt her a lot of money she contributed to charities and helped them support gay people, sexuality differences, cancer, and feminism. These are the reasons why I think she is an exceptional leader.
